

SKILLS

SUPERVISOR DEVELOPMENT - FREE TASTER SESSION

@ CATCH 7th December 2018
9:30am – 12pm

Coaching conversations at work

Why coaching? Coaching is good for business. It can lead to improved performance, improved team working, increased job satisfaction, engagement and well-being. A manager with good coaching skills can make a major positive impact in the workplace.

Coaching can be a difficult skill for supervisors to master as many supervisors use a directive style, rather than achieving it through employee engagement. As a supervisor in this session they will develop skills to support them developing a positive approach to identify, target and plan for performance improvement with their team.

Join us for a free taster session to introduce the supervisor development apprenticeship and diploma. This provision is delivered at College, at employers sites and is planned to be delivered at CATCH.

This three-hour session will give your supervisors the opportunity to sample both the content and interactive delivery style. Why not access free training and also an opportunity to encourage staff to think about their own personal development.

Come along to find out more! It's also a great opportunity to meet one of the team and ask any questions about the options available. Whether it's an apprenticeship, bespoke training or short courses we can explain the options and funding sources available.

Contact kcinfo@northlindsey.ac.uk or 01724 294040 to book your places.

